
Solutions 30 installs 5G antennas as part of a pilot project in Spain

Solutions 30, leader of solutions for new technologies, announces the installation of its first 5G antennas in Spain, as part of a pilot project led by Ericsson for a major telecommunication operator. These installations mark the beginning of the group's activity in the 5G sector, which will be an important driver of growth in the coming years.

On July 17th, Solutions 30 announced the acquisition of the Spanish company Provisona. Provisona specializes in managing deployment programs for mobile networks and is in pole position to capture expected growth in 5G installations. A few weeks later, the group's new subsidiary confirmed its ability to support the 5G roll-out by installing its first two antennas as part of a pilot project.

These early successes confirm the relevance of the strategy implemented by Solutions 30, which is gaining ground in a market with significant potential alongside one of the world's leading telecom equipment manufacturers. Discussions are under way to extend this collaboration in other European countries.
